Proceedings of the State Supreme and Federal Bodies at Lincoln.

ACTION ON GEN. O'BRIEN'S DEATH

Sheriff Eikenbarry Obtains a Requisition For the Return of a Murderer -A Souvenir of Abraham Lincoln-Capital Happenings, TEROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU. ! In United States court yesterday the trial of Cheeney vs Libby, a case brought from Gage county, was occupying the attention of the court. This is a case in ejectment, in which some $32,000 worth of real estate is involved. The facts show that Cheeney sold to Libby, that payments were made for a time on the sale, and then ceased; that some time after the payments were delinquent; that the ballance due was tendered but refused, on the ground that the contract of sale was violated. The trial is to jury. J. L. Webster, of Omaha, appears for the plaintiff, and Judge Davidson, of Tecumsch, for the defense.

The jury in the case of Boardman against the Johnson County bank, that was tried the day before, filed their verdict yesterday against the bank for Yesterday morning the committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the death of General George M. O'Brien, of Omaha, presented their report to the court and the resolutions were ordered spread on the record and a copy furnished the widow of the deceased. Remarks were made on the passage of the resolutions by Patrick O'Hawes, Judge W. H. Morris, Judge Dundy and Hon. T. M. Marquett. Following are the res-

To the Honorable the Circuit and District Courts of the United States for the District of Nebraska, Eighth Judicial Cir-cuit: Your committee appointed by order of the court to present resolutions upon the death of General George M. O'Brien, a member of the bar of this court, submit the following:

Whereas, In the mysterious wisdom of Providence General George M. O'Brien has been called from earth, in the prime of a ripe manhood, in the bloom and fullness of mature years, to that vale where human eye may not penetrate, where the voices from the shore. whence his soul departed, cannot be heard; and Whereas, General George M. O'Brien having been a member of the bar of this court for almost a quarter of a century, it would seem meet, while humbly bowing in submis-sion to the decree, that some action should be taken by the court and the members of the be taken by the court and the members of the bar as a mark of our esteem and regard for an associate who was a true man, a fearless advocate and a warm friend. Be it therefore Resolved. That in the death of General George M. O'Brien the state has lost one of her most loyal and patriotic citizens, the Grand Army of the Republic one of the bravest sons that ever took up arms in defense of a noble cause, the bar an able lawyer, and humanity a generous, loying friend.

fense of a noble cause, the bar an able lawyer, and humanity a generous, loving friend.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the widow and family in their bereavement.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread at large upon the minutes of this court, and a copy thereof transmitted by the clerk to the widow and family of the deceased.

Governor Thayer, as department com-mander of the state G. A. R., has issued the following general order to the posts in the state.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NE-Jan. 10, 1887.—It is with sincere sorrow that the commander announces the death of our comrade, Senior Vice-Commonder General Geo. M. O'Brien, which occurred at his home in Omaha late Saturday evening. A true patriot, a gallant soldier, an honored citizen and true friend has answered the last rolleall. Posts throughout the department will drape their charters and colors in mourning in evidence of respect to our deceased com-rade. John M. Thayer, Dep't Commander. J. W. Liveringhouse, A. A. Gen.

SUPREME COURT.
The supreme court met at their chambers yesterday and completed the call of cases in the First judicial dstrict, Mr. W. S. Sommers, of Beatrice, was admitted to practice and the following cases were argued and submitted: Savage vs. Aiken; Furros vs. Athey; Aspinwall vs. Sabin, on motion, state ex rel; Francis vs. Dodsen on demurrer.

The court adjourned after hearing these case until Tuesday, the 18th, when the call of cases appealed from the Second judicial district will be entered upon. The Second district being the most prolific in cases will be given the two weeks' time following the call on MOVING FOR NEW BUILDINGS. Yesterday Commissioner Scott was custodian for the time of the new and elaborate plans that have been drawn for two wings and engine rooms, etc., for the asylum at Norfolk. A bill has already been introduced by Representative Eisley for the purpose of obtaining these new buildings. C. O. Bates, of Beatrice, was at the commissioner's office yesterday discussing plans for the additions to be asked for the feeble minded institute the coming two years and plans are either completed or in preparation for buildings at the blind asylum at Nebraska City, the deaf and dumb institute at Omaha and the reform school at Kearney. Bills for these improvements are already be-fore the legislature.

AFTER A MURDERER.
Sheriff Eikenbarry, of Cass county, was in Lincoln yesterday securing from the governor requisition papers on the gov-ernor of Kansas to bring back to Ne-braska Charles Jones, who on Christmas day murdered his brother-in-law, Patrick Stewart, near the mouth of the Weeping Water in Cass county. A short time ago the governor offered a reward of $200 for the apprehension and return of Jones, and Sheriff Eikenbarry has located his man at Olathe, Kan., to which point the sheriff departed yesterday to bring back the murderer to justice.

Colonel John Hay, who is engaged upon the work of a life of Abraham Lincoln, has written to Major Kleutsch, of this city, for a copy of a letter written by Mr. Lincoln in 1859 to Colonel T. J. Pickett, then a resident of Illinois. The major is very proud of his souvenir, and has forwarded a copy to Colonel Hay, who will incorporate it in the work that he is preparing, and meanwhile the auto-graph letter, well framed, occupies a prominent position in the wash room adoining one of the private rooms at the house lobby. A large delegation came in from Pawnee City this morning, all interested in the Holmes Butler contest. Judge J. L. Edwards, of Pawnee, and Colonel E. D. Webster, of Omaha, are in the city.

Silas Beeson, E. F. Warren, J. W.
Poorman and wife, H. L. Woods, J.

from a cloud to make itself felt in attractions and repulsions many miles away. Clouds resting upon the remote horizon thus frequently produce percepti-ble efforts at distances from which the clouds themselves can not be seen. An electrical cloud hanging a mile above the ground acts inductively upon that ground with considerable power. When in summer-time the temperature of the earth's surface is very great, the ground moist, the air calm, and the sky clear, very copious supplies of vapor are steamed up from the ground under the Clouds, however, begin at length to gather in elevated regions of the air out of the abundance of the supply. The free electricity which has been carried up with the vapor is at first pretty evenly spread through the clouds; but after a time, as the electrical charge becomes more and more intense, a powerful re-pulsive force is in the end established between the spherules of the mist, and a very high degree of tension is at last produced at the outer surface of the cloud, where it is enveloped by insulating air, until in the end the expansive energy there becomes strong enough to occasion an outburst from the cloud. The escape

The packing houses at West Lincoln are killing and packing some twelve hundred porkers daily, and would handle more were they in the market. The ranging prices were from $4.50 upward, the top touching $4.65. the BEE: Touching different views on courts martial, a few words from $4.50 upward, the top touching $4.65.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Clark, accompanied by the parents of Mr. Clark, departed to-day for California, where they will remain during the remainder of the winter months. Their children are at present attending school on the coast.

one who has served a number of years in the army and knows whereof he writes, permit meas a prelude to say, if the United States army had more gentlemen of General Crook and Colonel Henry's ilk, and less of the kind dubbed by enlisted men and in many cases, I am sorry to say correctly "gentlemen by act of congress," the department of the Platte, and I venture to say no other department would have any such show ing as 78 per cent of its men tried by courts martial.

Courts Martial.

For the remedy I would suggest to the powers that be that soldiers for slight breaches of discipline should not be run a large audience at the opera house last evening in the presentation of "The Mighty Dollar," Such favorites are they with Lincoln people that they always at-tract a crowded house, to the guard house by some aspiring corporal seeking emulation, but as Colonel Henry says, and I am glad to see "sticks to it," a friendly talk and a little good advise will do more to clevate the young soldier than by going through a lot of red tape assembly, a garrison court martial for the trial of Private Brown, and such other prisoners as may be properly brought before it. The order always to be in proper form says "properly" but it very often happens that the victim is im-properly brought before it just as Colonel Henry asserts, and after three unfortu-nate lieutenants have sat to keep them out of harm's way, and learn the duties of war in such cases made and provided after mature deliberation and a certain amount of annoyance at not being able to amount of annoyance at not being and to find the prisoner guilty they render their verdict of "not guilty," and after the said. Private Brown has had from ten to four-teen days confinement with a guard at his heels with loaded rifle and fixed bayoefficacious for diseases of the male or-gans, and for all kidney complaints. Here are a few testimonials: "My son strained himself and was miserable. He could not stand upon his feet, and he wet the bed. One bottle cured him." Mrs. W. of North Walpele, Neb., writes: "I have taken your Vegetable Compound for the last year for a kidney complaint, and find it has helped me so much, after the doctor telling me there was no help for me; it has almost entirely cured me." net trotting him round to clean out slops, sweep backyards, and haut coal, etc., our young soldier is returned to duty but has no redress, poor fellow, he is awful glad to get out, I may say the majority of the young men of our army to-day are, as a class, equal in intelligence and behavior to the same number of young men in any pursuit in number of young men in any pursuit in civil life. Admitting that from the surroundings they may, at times, assume a natural soldier dare-devil. Is it to be wondered at that after such treatment as I have pictured that if he remains in service he gets disgusted, goes from bad to kidneys more than any other part of the body." Another lady says; "My little girl has not wet the bed since I gave her the first dose; the first time in three or four years." worse, getting used to the court martial farce and worries his term through or else deserts. Certainly old soldiers hailed with joy the epoch when tying up by the thumbs, carrying a log or loaded knapsack was done away with by humane leg-islation, but of late years in trying to improve the morals of the army the court martial system has undoubtedly been abused as shown by the increased number of trials until it is time for Colonel Henry and officers like him to cry "halt." Why not give the soldier for minor offenses extra drilling during the day, for six, eight or ten days; take away some of his privileges as to passes, in fact, do anything but don't stop his pay. and make him do chores for his superiors, who have by right of authority vested in them the privilege of sentencing him to this degrading punishment. When officers of the army "go it blind," as that high functuary of the army, the judge advector general of the army, the judge advocate general of the army is now doing, the country hears of it, but poor privates get their pay stopped for what the boys call a soldier's crime "nothing," and nobody cares except once in a while some one like Colonel Henry talks. Somehow soldiers are not much given to prayers, but I happened to overhear a couple of "boys in blue" discuss this subject and say a hearty "God bless them" for Crook and Henry, with the true, if old, saying that it is just such men that know how to lead and will have men to follow them in the "deadly breach,," should our republic require.

> I hope I have not trespassed too far in throwing more light on this subject, but I feel it as a duty to old associations and cannot be called to account for writing his, my mind, to the BEE, which has been the soldiers, fri SUBSCRIBER

BRAVE CHASKA'S WIDOW. Stirring Incidents Recalled by the Death of an Indian Woman. St. Paul Pioneer-Press: A short time ago an Indian woman, familiarly known to the white people as Lucy, died in her unpretending habitation at Mendota. She was almost as well known to the inhabitants of the twin cities as the historical "Old Bets." By the early settlers she was generally called "La-ti" (her lodge), and was the wife of the celebrated Chaska, who saved the life of Major George H. Spencer, late United States In-Paine, lot 1, block B, Llowe's last and, it starts 1,550.

Brackett, of this city, in 1864. Mr. Brackett and Lieutenant Freeman, of St. Cloud, had left General Sibley's command for the purpose of hunting antelopes, and suddenly unexpectedly encountered a party of hostile Sioux, who fired upon them, kulling Freeman. At this juncture haska, who was a scout accompanying the Sibley expedition, appeared upon the scene. Neither could understand the scene. Neither could understand the language of the other, but Chaska finally succeeded in making Mr. Brackett understand that the only thing for him to do was to dismount, abandon his horse and conceal himself in some tall grass near by until night, when he could emerge from his place of concealment and rejoin the command. Chaska then informed the Indians that they had killed both white men, and they soon took their departure, after securing the horses and parture, after securing the horses and equipments left by Messrs. Brackett and Freeman. Mr. Brackett obeyed his instructions and escaped, making his way back on foot to a supply camp which had been established by General Sibley a few days prayionaly. few days previously.

It will be remembered that some 200 or 300 women and children were held as captives by the Indians, and were subse-quently released by General Sibley. Some of these unfortunates fell into good hands and were well treated, but the condition of others was deplorable, often suffering from the pangs of hunger even while there was an abundance of food in the hostile camp. The dead La-ti proved herself the friend of the captives, giving them food, attending them when sick and trying to cheer them up with assurances that they would soon be restored to their friends. Chaska demonstrated his friendship for the whites in more ways than one, and at last laid down his life in the the service of the government, which was engaged against his own people. The heroic conduct of Chaska and the noble, generous deeds of La-ti during the bloody massacre of 1862 will long be rememcase. Mr. Huntington says:

The Central Pacific company, by the necessities of its task, entered into business relations with the government, by which questions were continually arising with the executive, judicial and legislative branches, and it was Mr. Sherrill's duty to learn, report and see that the position of the company received no damage.

In fewer words, Mr. Sherrill was kept at Washington to "look after the interests" of the Central and Southern Pacific railroads. Not content with the enormous grants and invaluable privileges which they have received from the government, these great corporations employ the highest grade of "skilled talent" to "see" that they "receive no damage." We do not object to Mr. Huntington's euphemisms for lobbyist. His frank admission of his "agent and adviser's" business is the thing that will most interest the public. The country will understand from it why it is that the railroad kings are so much interested in politics as to make $100,000 contributions to party campaign funds. It makes the work of their "agents" easier to have their tools and creatures in office In the same line is the policy of owning or controlling newspapers, which magnates like Huntington still follow. The journalistic "agents" also work at Washington and "see" that the public gets its news and opinions properly colored, so that "the position of the company may receive no damage." The lobby agent is more useful than the journalistic agent, and Mr. Huntington's defense of his late Washington adviser does credit to his
